Hello,

I would like to apply for the position of Frontend Developer at your company.

I am a self-taught frontend developer who has been practicing coding skills for two years now. I started my journey in development by learning necessary frontend skills such as : HTML, CSS, JavaScript and further React , mostly by various books and online courses. After finishing the Udacity Nanodegree Program I gained fundamental knowledge and practical experience by completing several end-to-end projects, some of them you can find in my portfolio. I am really passionate about what I am doing and always open for new challenges. Now I am looking forward to working on real-world projects and also very excited to become a part of a development team.

Having researched your company I am pleased to see that your mission and vision match my own career goals. I am a self-motivated, hardworking and reliable person with a great aspiration of growth and development . I believe I can become a good addition to your team and in time make a certain contribution to your company.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Olga
